

24 Dropshipping/Wholesale Websites From China

This comprehensive list of 24 Wholesale websites has been put together to provide you with a reliable resource for buying inexpensive, high quality products for you to resell in your own country either in your current bricks and mortar business, on ebay, ecommerce website, or even at your local weekend market.

As most of these products are being shipped directly from China, these products can be marked up as much as 500-600%, therefore enabling you to make considerable profits without the huge initial financial outlay that importing from China usually requires.

The quantity and range of products you can expect to find is so broad, not only will you find these platforms a great starting point for any entry level importing business, but they are literally a huge online shopping mall where you can purchase just about any product you can think of for your own personal use, instead of paying Full Retail Price in your local department store.

Yes that's right! This means you are now part of a very small minority of people who can now shop at wholesale prices.

For the websites listed below, I have made some brief notes about each company, just so you can see at a glance what products each of them sell.

Drop Shipping

I just want to briefly expand on one other important aspect, and that is Drop Shipping.

Drop Shipping allows you to start your very own online business without having to purchase your own products. Most of the websites I have listed offer drop shipping services to their customers. This is very simple and can be easily explained by breaking it down into 4 easy steps:

1. You register as a drop shipper with one of the websites listed, then advertise their products on ebay or your own website (Once you register, you can even get them to send their product pics for you to use).
2. A customer then makes a purchase of a product you have advertised online.
3. The customer pays you the full retail price for the product.

4. You then purchase the product online from the wholesaler's website, but instead of entering your own address, you enter your customer's address for delivery.
 5. Your wholesaler ships the goods direct to your customer without any paperwork to identify them as the sender. (With some drop shippers you can even send them your company logo for them to print on all paperwork so the goods even appear to have been sent by you.)

Your profit is the difference in price between what your customer purchased the item from you for, and the wholesale price you purchased it from the wholesaler.

It's that simple!
